Dear FDA:

I am a concerned milk drinker when it comes to rBGH. I am hesitant drinking milk or eating any dairy products from cows that were treated with rBGH. I am not completely convinced that rBGH is harmless to the human body and or well being. I am concerned with the long-term effects it has on the human body. It seems that no one is completely sure about the effects of rBGH on the human body.

If I had a choice, I would prefer to buy dairy products from cows not treated with rBGH. Without a national policy on rBGH labeling it is virtually impossible for me to make an informed choice regarding the dairy products in question. I urge you to adopt definitive national guidelines regarding rBGH labeling adhered to in all fifty states.

Thank you,
